

Remembrance Day

This year, to mark the centenary of the end of WW1, Inkpen will be holding a remembrance service at the Rec, to which the school has been invited.

Col. Nick Freeman will be coming in to school on Thursday to talk to the children in assembly about how the war affected the people of Inkpen.

Then, at the service, children will then be laying crosses to commemorate each villager who died in the First World War. As the service will be outside and children will be walking up to the Rec, we ask that all children have a suitable coat to wear that day.

We would welcome parents joining their child's class as we walk up to the Rec, but kindly request that once we arrive they stand behind the school to ensure that all the children can see. We will be leaving school at about 10.30 and returning at about 11.15.

Thank you, as always, for your support

Mrs K
